We were ruled by the British around 200 year ago. Since then our leader had tried a lot to be independent through the armed or unarmed struggles but the question is how we became slave. Why we were defeated. Which battles were there leading us towards a Slavery? Name any one battle for that cause.
Link Statement: Let us know about those two important wars of Indian history which changed the face of Indian polity and directed us towards the slavery for next 200 years.
Instruction Methodology	Duration -15-18 Min
Teaching Strategy(ies): Explanation and Discussion Discussion: - How can we become a ruler of a place? - Why it is always necessary to have a war to control others? - How can somebody else rule on us? Explain-As you all know that British had started controlling trade over here. They had FARMAN for duty free trade and some relaxation. The Nawab of Bengal stopped them from fortification and refused to be the Puppet Ruler. Then in that case the British attacked on him because he had captured the British crowd in Kasim Bazaar. This Battle went on and Nawab was defeated in 1757 in the ground of Plassey. The British did not stop here. They kept on acquiring more power. It was their intention to be the ruler of Bengal like Nawab. The Nawab were being forced to leave their properties in the favour of the British. When we analysed their annexation process it seems ok but the British had also loss of some lives. They did not stop. They kept on finding the ways to control properly in the year 1764. They had the war of Buxar after that they started nominating the rulers of their choice in some of the Indian states.
