

GOOD MORNING

summary

The above quote by Brian Tracy implies that you should set your objectives or goals in such a manner which push you to jump out of bed every morning. This indicates that you should always start your day with a grateful and generous heart in the morning.

Morning is the best time of the day when the mind is fresh and more receptive to new ideas. Likewise, the above Good Morning poem in English also indicates that it is during the early morning when the sky is bright with sunshine, a light breeze is blowing where birds are chirping, bees are buzzing and trees and grass are fresh and green. The Good Morning poem Class 3 then goes on to say that every morning is the dawn of a new day when a child wakes up with fresh hope of enjoying the day and ready to go out and play.
