SUMMARY OF THE POEM

- Although the title talks about just one animal, the poem speaks of many animals here! As we proceed, we find that the poem talks not only about a kitten but also about two cats, three butterflies, four rats, five fishes, six seals, seven seagulls, eight eels, nine lizards, ten bees, eleven elephants, twelve fleas, thirteen alligators, fourteen whales and fifteen donkeys. Huh! That was definitely a long list under the title – One Little Kitten.
- Talking about the language, we find it quite simple. With a poem of 16 short lines, it talks about 15 kinds of animals. Along with the poem, kids also can revise numbers – one, two, three... up to fifteen. Most of the animal names are preceded by adjectives such as little, big, baby, fat, sad, silly, happy, etc. In a nutshell, the poem lets the kids learn about animals, numbers and even adjectives.

You Will see all these animals with their number names.
